GALAWEEN FEATURES DJ WHITE SHADOW, COSTUME CONTEST WITH $1000 PRIZE, MORE

Benefit Party to Raise Funds for Programs at Chicago Cultural Center

This year, the hottest Halloween party in town for young professionals is Galaween on Saturday, October 31, 7:30 pm–1 am at the Chicago Cultural Center, 78 East Washington Street. The building will be ingeniously decorated to pay tribute to everything spooky and will be the backdrop for DJ White Shadow, dancing, a costume contest with a top prize of $1,000, interactive game stations, an open bar and hors d'oeuvres.

Tickets are $75 in advance and $90 at the door. Reservations can be made by calling 312.744.1364 or online at www.galaween.org.

Paul Blair, a/k/a/DJ White Shadow, has cultivated a strong following and proven himself to be a driving force in the nation's club scene, earning a spot as one of the country's most prolific and respected DJs. He masterfully mixes all genres, fueled by hip hop undertones, an incredible presence, and his ability to connect with and engage a crowd, driving them into a frenzy. White Shadow's musical style transcends boundaries and is indicative of the Midwest that he calls home — a melting pot. A celebrity favorite and high-profile event regular, DJ White Shadow has been personally requested by Fall Out Boy's Pete Wentz, R. Kelly, Todd Oldham, Lollapalooza, Bentley, and Gen Art, among others. In Chicago, he has performed at Underground and Lumen and at many corporate events and parties.

Galaween is chaired by Sean Cannon, Lally Daley and David Weinstein. Like the annual Mayor's Halloween Ball, Galaween will raise funds for the Chicago Cultural Center Foundation, which directly supports the admission-free Chicago Cultural Center, and helps present the hundreds of free events and exhibitions there each year. Chartwells Thompson Hospitality is the presenting sponsor for the Halloween Ball and a sponsor of Galaween.
